8. Feature: The good, service, or construction has the following unique features, characteristics, or capabilities: OraSure Technologies, Inc. is the manufacturer of the only known USFDA approved supplemental/confirmatory test for confirmation of oral fluid specimens for the presence of antibodies to Human Immunodeficiency Virus (HIV) Type 1. This product is unique in that it enables testing oral fluids for the presence or absence of antibodies to HIV. The testing of alternative specimens to blood and serum allows the collection of specimens in non-traditional settings. Many of these alternative specimens can be collected via non-invasive techniques. This allows counseling and specimen collection to be done by individuals who do not require specialized training for the collection of blood via venipuncture which requires specialized training.

The national algorithm for testing of oral fluids for HIV antibodies, in lieu of serum or plasma specimens, still require the use of a supplemental test. OraSure Technologies, Inc. is the manufacturer and sole distributor of the test kit. This is the only known FDA approved supplemental/confirmatory product for use with oral fluids.

The oral fluid collection devices manufactured by OraSure Technologies, Inc. is the only known FDA approved collection device for use with the oral fluid confirmatory western blot test kit.

9. Essential features. How the unique features, characteristics, or capabilities are essential for the agency to accomplish its work: The use of alternative specimens for the presence or absence of HIV related antibodies, enables the control programs of the health department to enter into non-traditional Counseling and Testing venues. Traditionally, these locations have been in health care clinics and medical settings. The use of an oral fluid based, test, allows for the collection of specimens in just about any location. The procedure is non-invasive and allows for the collection of specimens, without concern about potential sharps and the inherent concern for blood-borne pathogens.

The ability to extend specimen collection beyond the normal boundaries, has enhanced the ability for the control program to extend testing into areas that have been previously inaccessible. The client reluctance level to the collection via venipuncture of a blood specimen, has been greatly reduced with the implementation of oral fluid testing. Other alternative body fluids when tested for HIV antibodies have not yielded sufficient sensitivity and specificity to be used.

11. Alternate source. The following other possible sources for the good, service, or construction were investigated but do not meet our needs because: Orasure Technologies, Inc. is the only known FDA approved manufacturer and supplier of oral fluid collection devices and supplemental/confirmatory test. National studies have indicated that the use of oral fluids yields better sensitivity and specificity for HIV antibodies, than other alternative body fluids, such as urine.
